The tombstones herein recorded were viewed and transcribed by us with two exceptions; Haw River Presbyterian Church Cemetery, Rockingham County, N.C., which was given to us by the late Mrs. C.L. Pritchett of Osceola, N.C. and The Cone Family Cemetery, Greensboro, N.C., which was furnished by Herman Cone, Jr. Every effort was made on our part to find and record accurately all tombstones existing today in these old cemeteries. However, due to vandalism, erosion of stones and in many instances dense impregnable undergrowth, we cannot state with absolute certainty that we found all remaining markers.

We would like to thank our many guides for their assistance in our exploration of the county and its bordering territory, especially Mrs. Margie Green, Mrs. Ruth Thompson, Miss Kathleen Hoskins, the late Mrs. C.L. Pritchett, Messrs. Poley Adams, Gordon Cable, C.H. Darden, Ned Dillard, W. Calvin Hinshaw, Clarence Lewis, Egbert Murrow, Jerry Nix, Garland Stout, and Ellis Swain.

No. 158, 0.9 mi. west of its intersection with U.S. 220, alongside the gate of an adjoining rock quarry. There are perhaps 40 unmarked native headstones; several of the carved headstones are engulfed and protected by boxwoods. (Recorded 1975).

[1-E] The John Cummings Cemetery (Rockingham County). Proceed north from Witty's Crossroad (on U.S. 158) on Witty Road (No. 2351) 0.8 mi. to the Troublesome Creek bridge. The family cemetery lies in the wooded area on the south side of the creek, perhaps "200 yards" from the road on elevated ground, consists only of unmarked primitive headstones. We were unable to identify it on one search. According to a descendant, Mr. A. G. MacWilliams who lives on U.S. 158, this John Cummings was not a member of the Nottingham Colony which founded Buffalo Presbyterian Church, but settled here about 1765 with a large family and owned several hundred acres on the south side of Troublesome Creek.

[1-E] The Witty Cemetery. Some 20 yards west of Wittys Crossroads (Rockingham County) on U.S. 158, a dirt farm road on the south leads along the right border of one cultivated plot, turns left to skirt a larger cultivated field, thence left across a stream bed (better walk). Skirt the tree line to the right to elevated land; the cemetery lies about 25 yards in the woods on a knoll, perhaps a half-acre in size. There are three large carved headstones, about a dozen primitive slabs in two rows (two faintly etched), and some thirty unmarked primitive headstones.

5.	E.M.	crude etched slab		1844

[1-E] Unidentified Church Cemetery. On the north side of Scalesville Road (No. 1002), 0.2 mi. east of Davenport Dairy Road (No. 2310), the curving tree line 100 yards north marks the edge of the former road bed. Beneath the trees, marked by a taller sentinel tree at its western edge lies an old cemetery, scattered over a considerable area, not compactly grouped. There are at least thirty sunken gravesites evident, many with primitive headstones. No carved stones are seen. This property is owned by Mr. C. H. Darden of Greensboro, and the nearby home is occupied by his tenant, Mr. Atkins. (Recorded 1973).

[1-F] The Winchester-Reed Cemetery (Rockingham County). A short distance beyond the Rockingham County line, Scalesville Road (No. 1002) crosses the small Haw River. Proceed about 75 yards and turn west onto a dirt farm road which doubles back towards the river, passes through an iron gate, and continues 0.7 mi. (not in wet weather) to an old wooden house on the right. The cemetery lies in the woods behind this house, about 100 yards N.N.E. by compass. There are a dozen primitive unmarked headstones and six carved stones.

1-F Unidentified Church Cemetery (Rockingham County). On the S.E. side of Scalesville Road, 0.5 mi. before its junction with Church Street Extension (No. 1001), behind a cluster of cedar trees and dense honeysuckle, and across the road from an old log tobacco barn, lies a rather large scattered cemetery with many sunken gravesites and many primitive unmarked stones. Only six carved stones are found.

1-F The Stephen Henry Cemetery. About 0.1 mi. N.E. of the above mentioned cemetery, about 50 yards east of Scalesville Road in an open field is a small clump of trees partially concealing two carved (one broken and one primitive) headstones. Beneath the nearby trees to the west are several sunken gravesites and unmarked primitive stones, thought to have been the graves of slaves. This is the property of Mr. B. O'Bryant whose home faces Church Street Extension. (Recorded 1973).

From U.S. No. 150, 3 mi. west of Browns Summit, proceed north 3.2 mi. on Spearman Road (No. 2500) and park 25 yards beyond the Mill Creek bridge. Circumnavigate the high bank on the east side of the road to reach the cemetery some 50 yards up the hill. These stones are unusually large and ornate, well preserved, perhaps 4 feet high. The first four are surrounded by a stone wall, two others just outside, and the remainder about 25 feet away.

1-G The Phibbs Family Cemetery. On the north side of U.S. No. 150, about 50 yards from the road, 0.2 mi. west of Fairgrove Church Road (No. 2504), a group of trees shelters an old cemetery. There are about 15 unmarked primitive headstones, three Gordon slabs with scratched markings, and four carved Phibbs stones.

1-K The Haw River Presbyterian Church (1762-1866) Cemetery (Rockingham County). On the south side of Candy Creek Road (No. 2627) at a point 0.9 mi. west of Hwy. No. 150 and 1.9 mi. east of U.S. No. 29, a dirt road passes an old dwelling, turns right past a barn and thence curves southward to the trees at the top of the hill, where the cemetery is sheltered. There are many unmarked gravesites, many native headstones, and the following listing of legible stones was given to us by the late Mrs. C. L. Pritchett of Osceola, rearranged alphabetically. The property belongs to Mr. Bose Pritchett. (Recorded 1973).

1-K The Pritchett Family Cemetery (Rockingham County). Driving north on Hwy. No. 150 from Osceola, turn east on No. 2626 for 0.45 mi., turn right (dry weather only) alongside the fields to a tobacco barn on left at 1.2 mi. Fifty yards ahead in a grove of trees on the right side of the road (?) lies the cemetery, carpeted with periwinkle. A dozen sunken gravesites are recognized. Only one flat headstone is seen, still standing, but the etched inscription is illegible.

2-B The Nelson-Brookbank Cemetery. Proceed north on Hwy. No. 68 from Oak Ridge intersection with Hwy. No. 150 1.7 mi. (0.6 mi. N. of intersection with Harrell Road East (No. 2111), turn east into an eroded private driveway past the vacant house, past a barn on the left and another barn on the right, continuing due east 0.3 mi. to a cultivated field. Walk across the field E.S.E. to the woods, and through the woods about 75 yards, following a gully on the left — a one-time road to the cemetery. This farm belongs to Mrs. Velner B. Carpenter of Greensboro. There are about two dozen gravesites, about half with unmarked native headstones. Two crude stones bear illegible markings. (Recorded 1974).

2-B The Tatum Family Cemetery. From Summerfield proceed west on Hwy. No. 150 3 mi., turn north on Eversfield Road (No. 32109) 1.9 mi., and southwest on Friddlewood Road (No. 2110) to its terminus at a tenant's home on the property of Mr. C. H. Darden of Greensboro. Proceed by jeep or on foot straight ahead to the left of a big tree, along an abandoned farm road (profuse poison ivy) 0.35 mi. On the right shoulder of the road, surrounded by a native stone wall, is a cemetery about 75 feet square with about 30 recognizable gravesites, many with unmarked primitive headstones. (Recorded 1973).

[2-B] The Peagram-Endsley Cemetery. From the Tatum cemetery (above) proceed straight ahead about 0.1 mi. About 25 feet to the east, obscured by trees and undergrowth, a rather large shaped stone slab (No. 1) still stands, and two other carved stones are found. At least 15 sunken gravesites, some with primitive headstones, are scattered among the trees, suggesting that this was a church cemetery overlooking the Haw River long ago.

[2-C] The H. G. Moore Cemetery. Proceed west on Hwy. No. 158 from U.S. No. 220 1.3 mi., turn S.W. on Ellison Road (No. 2107) 0.6 mi. On the south side (almost opposite the home of Aubrey Holt), a farm road leads into the property of Mr. William Lambert of Greensboro. At its terminus (0.6 mi.) is a house, behind which and beneath the trees lie five unmarked primitive headstones and one carved stone. (Recorded 1974).

[2-D] The Bruce Cemetery in Summerfield where BUGLER GILLIS of Revolutionary War fame lies buried, is on the east side of the main street opposite a State Historical Marker, now marked by a small flower garden and tree. CHARLES BRUCE was granted land in 1767, operated a tavern at Bruce's Crossroads (now Summerfield), and was a member of the Council of State in 1791. He, his wife, ELIZABETH BENTON, children and grandchildren are buried here. Only one legible stone remains.

[2-D] The Case Family Cemetery lies on the east side of U.S. No. 220 at Summerfield, just south of a new residential development. Turn off on U.S. No. 220 on a dirt road, about 50 yards north of the junction of Myers Park Road (No. 2219) junction on the west side. At 0.3 mi. make a sharp right turn for another 0.4 mi. to a cleared field. The cemetery lies beneath the trees just left of this clearing. There are about thirty recognizable graves, many with unmarked primitive headstones. Only one marked stone was found, fallen, broken and covered with leaves. Our guide reported that there were other carved stones here in the past. (Recorded 1973).

[2-D] The Highfill Cemetery No. 1. From U.S. No. 220 at Summerfield, proceed east on Scalesville Road (No. 1002) 0.8 mi., thence south on Millbrook Road (No. 2313) 0.6 mi., into the driveway of Mr. Howard Waynick to the gate of his barnyard. Directly ahead (S.E. by compass) about 150 yards stands an unusually tall cedar tree on the fence line between two fields. There are three square rough unmarked obelisk stones of different height and smaller footstones. Mr. Waynick came here in 1965 and knows nothing of their identity.

[2-D] The J. W. Highfill Cemetery. A quarter of a mile to the east, on the west shoulder of Strader Road (No. 2316), a wedge-shaped stand of trees (30 x 75 feet) extends into cultivated fields, owned by Mrs. Velner B. Carpenter of Greensboro. Carpeted with periwinkle, this cemetery is thickly overgrown. There were at least 7 unmarked native headstones, perhaps a dozen other sunken gravesites, three of which had been vandalized and left open, one of them marked by a large white unmarked slab. No carved stones were found, but a neighbor recalled that there were 20-25 stones there which disappeared about 1940. This was the family cemetery of John William Highfill.

[2-D] The Highfill Cemetery No. 2, Highfill Road (No. 2312) is a deadend road northward from Scalesville Road, about 0.9 mi. east of U.S. No. 220. Another old cemetery lies 0.5 mi. west of this road at at point 0.4 mi. north of Scalesville Road. It is best approached via Mr. Turman Doggett's driveway, past his machine shop, proceeding on a zig-zagging but good dirt road (through locked gates) northward 0.6 mi. to a sharp turn left alongside the cemetery beneath the trees. There are perhaps 20 gravesites evident, nine unmarked native headstones, and only one roughly carved stone slab.

2-D The Carter-Hobbs Cemetery. This property between Strawberry (No. 2317) and Strader (No. 2316) Road on the north side of Hwy. No. 150 passed from the Carters to the Hobbs and is now owned by Mr. L. A. Walker, who escorted us to the cemetery. From Strawberry Road 0.45 mi. north of Hwy. No. 150, we walked due west 0.4 mi. to the woods, thence 0.3 mi. S.S.W. partly along logging trails. Several stones stand about 18 inches and are readily visible. There are several unmarked sunken gravesites, about 25 unmarked native headstones arranged irregularly in 4 rows, and three crudely marked stones.

Looking south from this point, across a cultivated field, the cemetery lies in the second wooded promontory on the eastern edge of the field, carpeted with periwinkle, honeysuckle & undergrowth (ca 300 yards). There are at least four primitive headstones, several unmarked sunken gravesites and two carved stones.

2-F The Heath-Smith Cemetery lies on the property of Mr. Allen Jeannette. Driving north on Church Street Extension (No. 1001), proceed 1.5 mi. beyond the intersection of Spencer-Dixon Road (No. 2329); turn west via a farm road to the large twin oaks and park. Follow the tree line along the west side of the field until it turns north; the cemetery lies 50 yards southward in the woods near a more conspicuous group of junked cars. At least 15 sunken gravesites are evident in addition to 6 carved headstones; our guide recalls another stone near the tree line and perhaps others hidden by the leaves. From its size, this was presumably a church cemetery. (Recorded 1973).

[2-G] The Maxwell Cemetery lies on the property of Mrs. B. C. Doggett. From Greensboro drive north on Yanceyville Road (No. 2523), turn east on unpaved Doggett Road (No. 2630) 2.6 mi. to a white frame 2-story house on the west side; this is 1.4 mi. south of Hwy. No. 150. Proceed down the driveway to the tobacco barns, bearing to the right behind them, thence westward again along the fence ca 300 yards; the left fork leads past a 10 x 15 foot cemetery surrounded by a crumbling 2-foot wall of field stones. No headstones nor other markers were found in the dense compost covering the ground. (This property has been in the Dogget family for many years; Mr. James Doggett is sure of the Maxwell identity, and believes there were three graves here.) (Recorded 1975).

[2-G] The Gordon-Vaughn Cemetery. In the N.E. corner of the junction of Fairgrove Church Road (No. 2504) with Hwy. No. 150 1.2 mi. west of Brown Summit is a small white house owned by Mrs. Ruby Bevill and occupied by a tenant. The cemetery lies about 25 yards N.E. of the house, with seven legible headstones in a row, facing away from the house. (Recorded 1974).

A once-cleared area just west of the cemetery and the remnants of a road between them suggests the site of the church building. Less than 10 sunken gravesites are recognized, several with unmarked native headstones. Only one carved stone is evident, moved from its site, leaning against a tree with its footstone.

[3-E] The McMichael Cemetery is located in the woods near the eastern end of the property of Dr. H. M. Hunsucker of Greensboro, extending from Alley Road (No. 2322) along the north side of Lunsford Road (No. 2323). This was part of the Florance farm and long ago a church is known to have been here. Proceed east on Lunsford Road 0.3 mi., and follow an old road bordering a cultivated field (property of Mrs. L. Richardson, tenant Mr. Rierson, lives nearby) crossing the creek, and following the tree line on the left 100 yards until it turns N.W.; at this point walk west into the woods 50 yards to the cemetery. There are at least 30 sunken gravesites, scattered over a considerable area, many with native unmarked headstones. Only two stones are legible, lying close together.

[3-E] An Unidentified Family Cemetery (???). From Lake Brandt Road (No. 2347), proceed west on Hwy. No. 150 0.5 mi., turn south by a cedar tree and residence 0.1 mi. beside a cultivated field; 200 yards ahead, and 25 yards to the east, a tall tulip poplar stands above the tree line. Beneath it there are three weathered, crumbling unmarked native headstones in a row. This property is owned by Mr. George Florance of Greensboro. It has been in his family for three generations, and his grandfather did not know who was buried here. (Recorded 1974).

[3-F] An Unidentified Family Cemetery (?Gordon?). On the east side of Church Street Extension (No. 1001) 1.1 mi. north of the junction of Spencer-Dixon Road (No. 2329) is the farm of Mr. W. T. Chrismon. Walk eastward along the south edges of two cultivated fields about 0.3 mi.; approaching the crest of the hill, the barbed wire fence on the right crosses a small well-defined patch of periwinkle, much overgrown. No standing headstones are visible, but Mr. Chrismon affirms that this was an old cemetery, that native headstones might still be found beneath the vegetation; he does not recall any marked headstones. This was formerly part of the Gordon Farm, and Mrs. Gordon, Sr., who lives nearby, knew of this old cemetery, but denies that any Gordons are buried there. (Recorded 1974).

[3-F] The Pitchford Family Cemetery No. 1. On the west side of Yanceyville Road (No. 2523), 0.2 mi. south of the junction of Archergate Road (No. 2516) is the home of Mr. Lee Hughes. In the middle of an open field, 100 yards southwest of his house, is a grove of trees sheltering a cemetery with 10 native stone markers, four unmarked sunken gravesites, and only 2 legible scratched stone slabs. (Recorded 1974).

[3-G] The Pitchford Cemetery No. 2 lies 100 yards east of Yanceyville Road, approximately opposite the first. It consists of about 8 unmarked native headstones scattered in the woods, without enclosure or border. Mr. Hughes recalled some marked stones here, which disappeared during logging operations. Walk down the driveway of Mr. L. J. Fulk, follow the tree line on the left as it curves southeast 25 yards to a cluster of deciduous trees among the pines; walk 30 yards eastwardly through the woods to the graves.

[3-G] The Davis Cemetery. On the east shoulder of Yanceyville Road (No. 2523), opposite the home of Mr. William Shaw and behind his mailbox is a clump of small trees and overgrowth hiding 5 carved headstones in a row, facing east. The inscriptions are badly eroded, the smaller inscriptions below not decipherable. The second stone is broken, fallen face downward, covered with compost.

E. Smith. The cemetery is about 12 feet square, surrounded by a 2-foot stone wall. Two large stones cover the graves, half covered with compost. (Recorded 1973).

[3-J] The Weatherly Cemetery lies hidden in a densely overgrown wedge-shaped cluster of trees extending south 25 yards into a cultivated field from the edge of Turner Smith Road (No. 2733), 0.6 mi. west of Friendship Church Road (No. 2728), 1.5 mi. east of McLeansville Road (No. 2732). In the southmost half of this thicket, seven unmarked native headstones are found, and two crudely carved headstones. This farm is the property of Mrs. Faucette who lives on the west side of Friendship Road near the Rockingham line. (Recorded 1974).

From U.S. No. 29, proceed east on Hicone Road (No. 2565) 3.8 mi., turn north on Plainfield Road (No. 2782) 0.7 mi., bear left on a dirt road, crossing the creek to a small cement-block building. From behind this spot, proceed on foot through the woods northwest by compass, crossing three ridges, the last planted in pine trees; about 50 yards beyond the pines on the down slope we found two primitive unmarked headstones projecting above a thick carpet of freshly fallen leaves. Upon our return, an informant told us there were several other such graves nearby, which we failed to recognize.

[3-J] The Jenkins Cemetery lies on the southside of Turner-Smith Road (No. 2733) beneath the trees behind the brick home of Mr. C. J. Lunsford (beware of police dogs), 0.2 mi. west of Middle Stream Road (No. 2725) junction. There are 20-plus sunken gravesites, scattered irregularly over a considerable area, suggest a church cemetery. Several native headstones remain and only one crudely carved flat stone uprooted beside an oak tree.

M. West. The cemetery lies beneath the trees behind his house. There is a large cluster of perhaps 25 scattered graves, many with crude headstones, only two of which are decipherable. Twenty-five yards to the west is another cluster of graves with native headstones, none marked. A small white carved headstone previously seen here has disappeared. (Recorded 1973).

[6-G] The Proximity Mill Cemetery contains an estimated 2,000 graves and is situated on the north side of Phillips Avenue in N.E. Greensboro, 0.7 mi. east of U.S. No. 29. Interments were apparently in order of death, without regard to family groupings, in north-south rows beginning in the N.W. corner, thus filling the northern half of the cemetery. Each grave was equipped with a concrete base for a small headstone; only a small percentage of carved stones were added. Some of the bases have the name embossed in the concrete with no other data. The south half of the cemetery has been more recently used, with larger stones and some family groupings. The following legible stones were recorded in the older part with death dates prior to 1915.

[6-G] Holt's Chapel Methodist Cemetery (No church) lies just south of Holt's Chapel Road as it leaves 2412 East Market Street in Greensboro. These headstones (ca 25) are listed on p. 227, Cemetery Records of North Carolina by D.A.R. (Greensboro City Library, Accession N.C. 929.3/W2385).

[6-K] The Sikes Cemetery lies about 100 yards east of Sedalia Road, 0.3 mi. north of its junction with U.S. No. 70 at Sedalia, in the wooded area E.N.E. of the residence with the concrete driveway. About 30 feet in diameter, it is encircled by stumps of cedar trees, now protected by a wire fence. A pair of adult graves is surrounded by a low stone wall; a carved headstone said to have been here has been removed. A deeply sunken adjacent grave, also unmarked, suggests that it has been pillaged. One small carved stone leans against a stump, near a small footstone.

[7-A] The Lindsay Cemetery lies N.W. of Sandy Ridge Road (No. 1850), 3.0 mi. south of I-40 at Colfax. A point 0.2 mi. S.W. of the junction of Johnson Street Extension (No. 1818) a rough farm road leads across a wooded ravine about 100 yards to a cultivated field; turn left and follow the tree line about 75 yards to a wooded promontory sheltering the cemetery. One unmarked headstone and five legible carved stones are found. The old Lindsay home stood 0.3 mi. west of the Johnson Street junction, where a marker commemorates the first county seat of Guilford at his home. (Recorded 1976).

[7-E] The Cumberland Presbyterian Church Cemetery has been levelled and is now a grassed elevated side yard adjoining the Rolling Roads Church of the Nazarene, 2207 Rheims Street, S.E. of the Four Seasons Mall in Greensboro. Entry steps are flanked by brick pediments, one bearing an unmarked native headstone, the other a bronze plaque: "In grateful memory of Jonathan Short who donated this land in 1839 for the Glory of God." A granite headstone has been incorporated in a nearby brick monument, simply inscribed:

1. SHORT, Jonathan

Apr 22, 1847

[7-E] The Mt. Zion Methodist Church Cemetery is still used by the Glenwood Methodist Church; the original church building was situated on the east side of Freeman Mill Road about 50 yards N.E. of the cemetery in the 2500 block of Freeman Mill Road in Greensboro, on the west side. (Recorded 1976).

(The proposed new U.S. No. 220 was surveyed to cross Mt. Zion cemetery. The State of North Carolina purchased the property from Glenwood Methodist Church and authorized the removal of all bodies Summer, 1977. The bodies were claimed by nearest of kin and removed to cemeteries of their choice. The unidentified and unclaimed bodies were removed to Guilford Memorial Park, 5900 High Point Road. In some instances there were graves on top of graves.)

8-G The Hatton Cemetery is located in a small clump of trees sheltering a collection of field stones, in the center of a cleared and fenced field, 150 yards eastward behind a 2-story frame house at 3409 Liberty Road in Greensboro, the home of Edward Hendrickson, 1.2 mi. from the junction of Liberty Road (No. 3549) with U.S. No. 421 about 0.5 mi. south of I-85 and I-40. One carved stone and 2 scratched primitive stones are legible; a former resident reported that there were other marked stones which have disappeared. (Recorded 1974).

There are many sunken gravesites, numerous native headstones, and 12 carved stones are recorded. Old boxwoods have protected some of the stones. (Recorded 1974).

[9-E] An Unidentified Family Cemetery is said to lie beneath the litter beneath a clump of trees which has been fenced in for a dog pen, about 25 yards behind an old frame residence on the west side of Drummond Road (No. 1392), opposite the Salvage Disposal Company's enclosure. No marked stones are evident within the dog pen nor beneath the overgrown trash pile behind it. The owner is a black whose grandfather bought his property before 1900 from a Mr. Paschall. Before that it is said to have belonged to a Benbow. He recalls that there were perhaps twenty native headstones here at one time, some bearing carved initials; he recalls none with a surname.

[10-C] The Breedlove-Hill-Holder Cemetery lies in the wooded southeast corner of the intersection of Kivett Drive (No. 1113) and Kersey Street (No. 1158), 0.5 mi. east of the Kivett Road - I-85 intersection. This is said to have been the site of a Friends Meeting House, now owned by Springfield Friends Meeting. We failed to find the Noah Breedlove stone previously recorded by others. (Recorded 1976).

[10-G] The Dickey Cemetery is surrounded by a stone wall about 25 feet square and occupies the crest of a wooded tract on the west side of Hwy. No. 22. The property is now owned by Mr. C. H. Kirkman, great grandson of Peter Kirkman, who purchased it from the Dickey heirs about 1860. About 0.25 mi. south of the junction of Appomattox Road and Hwy. No. 22, the entry to an abandoned residence on the west is blocked by a chain. From the house, proceed southward about 50 yards, turn right and follow a wide curving arc like a question mark to the higher ground. The large flat stones covering the graves are badly stained and worn and difficult to decipher.

11-F The Timber Ridge Primitive Baptist Church Cemetery is located in Randolph County, not far from the Guilford County line. From U. S. No. 220 at Level Cross, proceed east on Petty Road (No. 2101) 0.6 mi. and turn north in dry weather only into a dirt farm road, taking the right fork to join a power-line service road for 100 yards, then left on the farm road again to park at 0.95 mi. by a trash dump. The cemetery lies northward about 50 yards, best approached around the left side of the intervening thicket. The cemetery covers about an acre, partly carpeted with periwinkle; there are many native headstones, many crudely scratched; the carved headstones are chiefly at the western end of the cemetery. This property was given to the church about 1803 by Christopher Vickrey, and the surrounding farm is presently owned by a descendant, Dick Vickory, who lives 1.1 mi. east of Level Cross on No. 2101 (Recorded 1975).

The first Bowman immigrant and Sam Deviney (1734-1835, age 101) are buried here. Considerable trash has accumulated here but no markers are visible.

[3-J] The Wyrick Cemetery No. 2 On the south side of Turner Smith Road (No. 2733), just west of the junction of Jackson School Road (No. 2730), stands an old barn. A dirt road leads almost due south past the barn 0.6 mi. to a saw mill on the south edge of a large field. Walk east along this tree line about 50 yards, south about 40 yards, and again east about 30 yards, where a logging trail enters the woods southward; follow it 30 yards, then turn east 30 yards through the woods to a large ½ acre cemetery, heavily carpeted with periwinkle. Several tall tulip poplars and smaller cedars constitute a marker at the tree line. No carved stones are seen, but we observed one unmarked slab stone, a dozen native headstones, and perhaps fifty unmarked sunken gravesites. This property was inherited by Mrs. Hugh O'Connor, who lives in the white house almost opposite the barn, and her brother. It was first purchased by her grandfather Smith after the Civil War. She is certain this was a black cemetery, recalling long ago funeral processions in which pallbearers carried the caskets from the highway to the cemetery.

"Lost, But Not Forgotten"

Cemeteries

British Soldiers: (1) About eighteen British soldiers were buried among the trees at a curve on the north side of N. C. 150, 1.6 miles west of U.S. 220, presently owned by A. C. Metts. (Reported by Miss Kathleen Hoskins) [2-C]

(2) "Several" British soldiers were buried in a field west of Drummond Road, about 1 mile north of Sumner School. (Reported by Dr. Edward Benbow) [9-E]

Caldwell Slaves: With wooden markers long since deteriorated, the burying ground of the Caldwell slaves is situated behind the residence at 1305 Hobbs Road, Greensboro, near the recently established City Park in memory of Dr. David Caldwell's homeplace and "log college." (Reported by Dr. Arthur Freedman) [6-E]

Dwiggins Cemetery: This cemetery was described as being on Harrell Road near the Union Nondenominational Church Cemetery, Oak Ridge community. [3-B]

Lane Cemetery: The Lane home on the east side of Lawndale Drive, Greensboro, opposite Sears Mail Order Plant, was torn down after World War II as urban development blanketed this area. The Lane family cemetery is said to have been "a long way" from the home. (Reported by a granddaughter) [5-E]

Lawrence Cemetery: Two Lawrence children were buried in the woods on the north side of Scalesville Road, 3.2 miles east of U. S. 220. The parents were interred at the nearby Primitive Baptist Church Cemetery. (Reported by Miss Kathleen Hoskins) [2-D]

Middleton Cemetery: Two unmarked graves are behind an old log cabin on the north side of N.C. 150, 1.8 miles west of U. S. 220, on the property of Mrs. Elizabeth Ogburn. (Reported by Miss Kathleen Hoskins) [2-C]

Winfree Cemetery: This cemetery is near the Case Family Cemetery, east of U. S. 220, opposite Summerfield. (Reported by Miss Kathleen Hoskins) [2-D]
